IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our husband and Daddy, T. H. Robertson, who left us one year ago April 16, 1949.

April brings sad memories,
Of a loved one gone to rest.
You will never be forgotten,
By the ones who loved you best.

We can not forget you,
Though long has been this year;
And 'ten in the lonely hours,
We wipe away the tears.

Some say time heals all sorrow,
But this seems so untrue,
For a year has passed,
And still we grieve for you.

We have only your memory, Dear Daddy,
To remember our whole life through
As we treasure the image of you.
—Sadly missed by his Wife and Children.

IN MEMORIAM:

In loving memory of my dear father, Aurelious A. Baldwin, who departed this life three years ago today, April 12, 1947.

I often sit and wonder,
When the lights are burning low;
Was it because I loved you too much
God's call was you must go.

It is so lonely here without you
And so sad along life's way,
Life is not the same to me, dear Daddy,
Since you were called away.

When evening shadows are falling,
And I am sitting all alone.
Dear Daddy, if you could just come home.
—Sadly missed by: Daughter.

'Suicide Tag' Gave Engineer His Worst Days

NEW YORK. — Ernest Evans pulled his motorman's cap down tight on his head and turned to the photographers.

"If you want to take my picture," he said, "you'll have to do it with my cap on. Without it I look to be 100 years old, but I'm not 70 yet."

The flashbulbs popped. Evans grinned, pulled the throttle and train No. 75 pulled out of the Pennsylvania station for Philadelphia. It was Evans' last run after 50 years of service with the railroad system. He didn't know it, but his wife, daughter and grandson were waiting in Philadelphia to greet him and hold a big party.

Party Kept Secret

The news about the party was given by another grandson, Donald, while Evans wasn't listening. Donald rode along with his grandfather to celebrate the "old man's" last official ride.

Before the train left, Evans, talking about his experiences, said that if he could start all over again he "would do the same thing for another 99 years."

One summer a few years ago stands out in his memory. That was when several children of Philadelphia invented a wild game called "suicide tag."

"The kids would stand on the tracks," said Evans, "and their game was to run off just as the train was approaching. From what I gathered the winner was the kid who came closest to being hit by the locomotive. I had to stop, whistle the lungs out of the train, and crawl until rail yard workers chased them off the tracks. I sure was happy when they finally put an end to that game."

Was Crew Caller

Evans began working for the Pennsylvania in Jersey City as a crew caller. His job was to ride around on a bicycle calling the train crews together. A year later he was made a fireman, and in 1910 he was promoted to engineman. His route has been the same for the last 40 years—New York to Philadelphia and back.

He estimated that since 1910 he had driven his trains, without an accident, more than 1,800,000 miles.

Evans expects to "loaf, maybe watch a baseball game now and then, and rest," at home with his wife Anna in Pitman, N. J.

"I've only got one hobby," he said. "That'll be playing with my little grandson when he starts running his electric trains around the house. I just love those electric trains."

Young Parents Urged To Do Baby-Sitting To Gain Experience

NEW YORK. — Young parents could do themselves a lot of good if they did their own baby-sitting, according to Mrs. Sidone Gruenberg, former director of the Child Study Association of America.

She recommended baby-sitting as the best means of gaining practical experience in raising children.

Formerly, Mrs. Gruenberg said, when families were large, a young woman who married had learned something about rearing children from her married brothers, sisters and cousins who had families.

"Nowadays," she continued, "we not only have the smaller family unit but parents who themselves come from small families. Consequently they haven't the know-how of their relatives to guide them." There is some knowledge of child care, but the application is lacking, she noted, adding that the combination of more knowledge and less practical experience "creates a bottleneck."

Mrs. Gruenberg took issue with the attitude of colleges that the answer to preparation for family life comes through "more and more courses." She said colleges give courses today in everything from cooking to ceramics and gardening, but "most courses are boring and not revelant."

Mrs. Gruenberg recommended that parents, particularly those with small families, cooperate more on a community basis.

"Why not ask another family with several children in," Mrs. Gruenberg suggested. "They might like it, and it would solve the small family problem."

"Housing developments, where cooperative pooling of family resources might succeed, are not anxious for such projects," Mrs. Gruenberg remarked. "A large number of complaints from mothers have come to my attention in housing developments in and near New York that their efforts to start such community projects as with opposition. Management seems afraid, they believe, that if the mothers get together for things like child care discussions they might get together for other things like discussing rents."

Two-Way Suit of Nylon Bars Out Subarctic Cold

WHITE HORSE, YUKON TERRITORY. — A nylon suit with pile worn inside and outmaking the suit a two-way affair—has successfully passed extreme cold tests in the subarctic.

Canadian pilots and ground troops were trying out the suits, with which they wear no wool and no underwear.

The wearer first takes off every bit of clothing except socks and boots, then slips into the first suit of nylon pile—pile being like fur on velour. The first suit has the nylon pile turned inside, next the wearer's body. Then another suit of the same kind is put on, except that on this suit the pile is outside, facing the icy breeze. There's a hood that is pulled over the head. Then the wearer zips up five or six zippers and is all ready for subarctic temperatures.

It's an Eskimo idea. For centuries they've been wearing caribou suits like that. The first suit has the fur turned inside next to the body. The next one has the fur facing the weather. It's light, easy to move around in, quick to put on.

The layer after layer of woolen paraphernalia they ordinarily wear up here is bulky, tiring to work in and time consuming.

Alleged Vision Discovered To Be Only a Water Stain

EL RIO, CALIF.—Hundreds of devout folk in this small Spanish-American community said a vision of the Virgin Mary appeared to them from a rooftop. But Catholic Msgr. Anthony Jacobs said that it was merely a watersain on the wood.

California highway patrolmen reported a steady stream of traffic into the tiny town. It was estimated that 4,000 persons came to see the reported "miracle."

However, Msgr. Jacobs said that inspection by the Rev. John Foselman disclosed that the image was a "watermark on the wood in the shape of an irregular oval resembling somewhat the statue of Guadalupe."

The statue of the Virgin Mary in Guadalupe is venerated by Mexican Catholics.

The vision was reported by Manuel Reyes, who is building a house for his mother in this predominantly Mexican settlement southeast of Ventura.

Reyes said he was laying roofing paper on the small building. He climbed down a ladder to get another roll of paper, returned and saw what he said was the vision. He said he could see the features clearly and also see her purple robes.

He spread the word among the townspeople and the crowd began to gather. Some 500 persons live in the settlement. By midnight, the state highway parol, called to direct traffic, estimated the crowd at 1,200.

Rocket Moon Trip In Next 50 Years Seen by Scientist

LINCOLN, NEB.—Some day, say about 50 years from now, a space ship may make the 240,000-mile trip to the moon and return to earth, within 24 hours.

That is the belief of J. P. Colbert, professor of civil engineering at the University of Nebraska. He is confident that science will solve the problem of fueling a giant rocket ship for the expedition by about the year 2,000.

According to Colbert's predictions, the ship will take off at an almost perpendicular angle and hurtle through the air at the necessary seven-mile-a-second "escape speed." Once the ship is clear of the air surrounding the earth, he said, its rockets can be cut off and it can coast through space a part of the time.

He estimated the journey will take about nine hours.

The aircraft will have to land stern first, Colbert said, using its rockets to break the impact of the landing.

The arrival on the moon will be timed for the "dawn line," just as that planet's 336 hour "day" is beginning, Colbert said. The temperature there reaches the hotter than boiling point of 214 degrees when the sun is directly overhead, he noted, and the two week long "nights" get as cold as 215 degrees below zero. Therefore men must plan to arrive at the most temperate time, he explained.

Astronomers believe men can remain safely on the moon one or two hours before beginning the return voyage, Colbert said.

The take-off from the moon will be far easier, he said, since its gravity is only one-sixth as strong as the earth's.

Unmanned, guided missiles undoubtedly will be used on test flights before a staffed expedition tries it, Colbert said. If these rockets were filled with an explosive, colorful substance to spatter the surrounding area, the landing could be seen by strong telescopes on earth, he thinks.

Colbert said it is reasonable to assume the last half of the century will see development of the fuel needed for the trip.

"Look what we've done in the first half," he said. "If anyone had tried to describe television or jet planes in 1900, people would have thought he was crazy."

Woman's Tongue Sends Man Back to Chain Gang

COLUMBUS, OHIO. — The couple upstairs were arguing and their conversation suddenly became interesting to Patrolman James A. Hicks.

The off-duty policeman reached for his phone and dialed headquarters after he heard the woman upstairs shout:

"You know where you belong? Right back on that Georgia chain gang you got away from!"

Detectives arrived within minutes and arrested the man, Thomas J. Dixon, 30, and wired Georgia officials for his record.

The information the woman unwittingly gave the policeman was correct—Dixon was an escapee from the public works camp in Dublin, Ga.

Ancient Spanish Crown Found in Old Cathedral

MADRID, SPAIN.—Lost for seven centuries, the ancient Spanish crown of King Alfonso X, known as the "sage" is among precious historic relics that have been found in tombs in Toledo cathedral, according to information received here.

Spanish scholars in recent years have turned up a number of important medieval relics in royal tombs and in some cases the dry climate has kept them almost intact. The finds in Toledo are among the most important of all, it was said by Prof. Manuel Gomez Moreno, noted Spanish archeologist.

Besides the crown, scholars found a sword at least 700 years old and in perfect condition, two of the finest specimens known of medieval brocades, a pair of silver spurs and one of fine gilded leather shoes more than 600 years old and in fine condition.

The relics are being prepared for display. The outstanding item is the crown. Known by a description left by Alfonso X, it had vanished from history with his death in 1284 until the tomb of his son, Sancho the Bold, was opened.

Too Much Leeway for Kids Held Delinquency Cause

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. — Parents permitting children to "rule the roost" is one of the largest contributing factors to juvenile delinquency. That is the opinion of Judge Talbot Ellis. The judge said his juvenile and domestic relations court handled 1,994 juvenile cases during 1949.

"Parental control is the answer," the judge said. He added that in families where the father is absolute head of the family children are taught to respect their parents. Too many families let the children rule the roost. As a result they have no respect for parental authority.
